Biography:

Paulette attained three degrees from the University of Washington and a Certificate of Study in Conflict Resolution and Strategic Negotiations from the Washington Center in Washington DC, and carries Executive Certification in Energy Policy Development from the University of Idaho College of Business and Economics.

As a businesswoman and community leader, she strives to bring balance and respect to the Idaho State Legislature through ethics reform and building a transparent government connected directly to the people, while working to advance the interests of all citizens of her District, State and Region of the Northwest. With her strong background on local, regional and national protections of the environment while creating economic development opportunities, she aims to strike an important balance between industry and appropriate protections for local property owners. Paulette's priorities also include supporting education for infants to adults, criminal justice redesign, promoting mental behavioral health services, and building a stronger economy for long-term professional employment in her positions of public office.

Representative Jordan is on the Idaho House Business Committee, State Affairs Committee, the Energy, Environment and Technology Committee and is a member of the Idaho Legislative Council with select leadership from both the House and Senate. Recently, Representative Jordan was appointed by the House Speaker to represent Idaho on the Energy and Environment Committee of the Council of State Governments-West, a legislative organization that is comprised of thirteen states in the western region.

In the private-sector, Paulette was recently elected by acclamation to serve as the Secretary of the National Indian Gaming Association, where she remains the Finance Chair and has previously served three terms as the Northwest Representative Board Member. The organization serves to build social and economic growth for communities nationally.

Paulette is also the Co-Chair for the Gaming Committee of the Affiliated Tribes of the Northwest Indians and works to promote growth for local, state, regional & national infrastructures to ensure access to quality healthcare, education, housing & other community needs. Through both organizations she remains committed to community enhancement and job stimulation through economic development.

Paulette continues to support her surrounding U.S. Veterans as a member of her local legion and is a mentor for youth nationwide. She maintains her statewide volunteerism on multiple boards relating to Disability Action and Idaho's Historical Heritage Trust.
